

LIGHT UP MIAMI

FIRST ANNUAL PHOTOGRAPHY EXHIBIT "THE MIAMI SKYLINE AT NIGHT"

Miami's role in the new decade of the '90's emerges as a dynamic, modern city whose international image is enhanced by its dramatic illuminated architecture.

This exhibit artistically represents the civic pride and vitality of excellent amateur and professional photographers whose images of the colorfully lit Miami skyline portray this metropolis as an evolving work of art. Their photographs capture a moment, a mood, all different — all of them MIAMI.

Light Up Miami's first photographic exhibit opening at the Bacardi Art Gallery in Miami is the result of the winning entries of the Red, White and Blue "Salute to the Troops - A Flag Day Celebration" photography contest that took place on June 14, 1991 as well as a generous loan from John Gillan, Paul Morris and Metro Dade County.
